

Learn. Innovate. Disrupt (or perish)

Stop talking and start innovating. A practical 2-day course for those that want a better understanding of innovation processes and the innovators toolbox. Expect to be challenged.

#Change & Innovation #Leadership #face-to-face #Up to 1 week

Introduction

The programme has been designed to take participants through a 'full' cycle of innovation: from idea generation to prototyping. The design is hands-on and draws on the latest so-called human centered design thinking. We will generate solutions to participants' actual challenges in a fast-paced event that includes tips and guidance for those who wish to replicate the training within their teams.

Objectives

Upon successful completion of this 2-day programme the participant will:

- Be able to apply the innovation process and tool box to their 'own' innovation projects
- Be able to conduct an innovation training (if participants bring some facilitation experience to the training)

Course Contents

Day 1: Introduction to innovation (definition), the innovation process, challenge identification and idea generation.

Day 2: Prioritization, prototyping and facilitating. Individual commitments and evaluation.

Course Methodology

The course is hands-on and highly interactive. Fun, fast-paced and useful.

Target Audience

UN staff (others are also welcome) with an interest in understanding innovation, and staff with some facilitation experience who wish to facilitate innovation training.

Cost of participation

Thanks to multiple donors' support this course is offered at a subsidized fee of USD 990. This does not include travel, accommodation and lunch. Light snacks will be available throughout the two days.
